City offers to buy Lincoln School site

The city of Daly City has made an offer to purchase the abandoned Abraham Lincoln School in Westlake, with half of the funds needed to purchase the school coming from the widow of Henry Doelger.

Daly City City Council members unanimously voted to sign the offer of purchase Monday. The city will have six years to pay the Jefferson Elementary School District for the site.

Trustees of the elementary school district were scheduled to discuss the purchase Tuesday night.

In a related action, the city also voted to start eminent domain proceedings against the school district to acquire a playground at Olympia School.

The district has refused to sell that parcel so the city has begun the legal maneuvers to condemn it and acquire it through the condemnation process.

The city is planning on using the abandoned Lincoln School as a senior citizen center, a recreation facility for youths and communjty groups and as an arts and cultural center.

Lincoln School has an appraised value of $1.27 million. However, the city has said that another appraisal will be sought before the purchase price is set.

City representatives and the Jefferson Elementary School District have 30 days to reach an agreement on price, according to the terms approved in the real estate purchase agreement.

If a price cannot be agreed on within that time, the presiding judge of the Superior Court in San Mateo County will be asked to appoint an arbitrator, whose decision on the price will be binding on both parties.

An initial payment of $300,000 will be due within 30 days after the school is bought. The balance of the money will be due annually on Dec. 1, starting in 1980 and concluding in 1985.

Thelma Doelger made the surprise announcement through a representative recently that she would pay for half of the school. The center will be named the Henry and Thelma Doelger Center.

Using the school as a community center is a turn-around from a proposal that generated much controversy earlier this year. It had been proposed that low-income housing be built on the site.

City Manager Dave Rowe reported Monday that the JESD Board of Trustees has not taking formal action yet on the city's purchase offer, but he said the consensus appears to be that the offer will be accepted.

The city has been more successful in the Lincoln School negotiations than it has been in its attempts to buy a sliver of the former Olympia School.

School board members have rejected the city's offer to buy a .04-acre site of the school, saying the school should be sold as an entire package.

When rebuffed from outright buying the playground area of Olympia School, the city looked at another alternative. That was to condemn the site because of a finding that it was in the public's interest to do so.

After hearing from Westlake residents that the playground was the only one in the neighborhood, the City Council voted unanimously to begin eniment domain proceedings against the Jefferson School District.

Parent Judity McCarthy said a park is needed in the neighborhood because children do not have anyplace else to play. She said she counted 18 children playing in front of her that afternoon.

School Trustee Dorothy Adams reported to the council that Olympia School has been closed for more than a year. In that time, the school's condition has deteriorated rapidly.

The district is opposed to subdividing the property because that would take at least a year, she said, and in the meantime the condition of the property would continue to worsen.

"Certainly we do not expect that vandalism would cease," she said.

The district has found that it would not be in the best interest of the children to keep the property another year, Mrs. Adams said.

Olympia School has been for sale, but no one has made the minimum bid of $886,000. A bid of $200,000 reportedly was received from Mrs. Doelger.

Recreation Director Charles Vincent, in a memorandum to the council, said the Olympic section of Daly City is surrounded by busy thoroughfares.

"The Recreation Division has provided recreation leadership on this facility for approximately 15 of the last 20 years and it has become recognized by the Olympia neighborhoodas their playground," he said.

He encouraged the city to consider buying the playground area because there is no other playground in the area that is within safe walking distance.

A NEW CADET (Dave Dornlas Photo)

Lorraine McGrath, 18, of Daly City, is one of the four new Daly City Police Department cadets to go to work since the program was resume. She is a freshman criminology major at San Francisco City College and has worked by a police explorer scout post in law enforcement work earlier this year. Ms. McGrath says she plans to be a policewoman when she is 21 and wants to work in child abuse.

SSF hostage's family counts its blessings

By HEIDI VAN ZANT
Post Staff Writer

There is one South San Francisco family that is really counting its blessings today.

Thanksgiving is not only a day of thanks, but the day the Tedfords are going to be reunited with their 24-year-old daughter Terri, held hostage for more than two weeks at the U.S. Embassy in Iran.

Miss Tedford grew up in South San Francisco and graduated from El Camino High School. She had been working in Iran for the past two months as a secretary to the American ambassador.

Plans call for her to be joined with her family today in Washington. Her relieved father, Orville Tedford, said this year's Thanksgiving means more to him than any other holiday.

"It'll be the best," he said.

His daughter was released early Tuesday morning and then was debriefed in Paris and West Germany. The Tedfords do not know if their daughter will return to South San Francisco with them from Washington.

Tedford chatted briefly with his daughter Tuesday. She sounded "wonderful" on the telephone, her father said.

"She was tired and under a great deal of strain," he said, but nevertheless was happy to be among the second group of hostages released.

However, her joy of being released is somewhat overshadowed by her concern for the safety of the hostages who have not been freed, her father said.

Tedford said this experience has "been the worst two weeks of my life."

While waiting to hear Monday evening if his daughter would be released, he remarked that his wife, Dorothy, and his other two daughters "are about ready to crack up."

Their vigil by the telephone paid off. The good news that his daughter had been released came at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday when an overseas operator placed a call to his home from his daughter.

Describing his daughter as a "real strong" person, Tedford said he had not been worried about how his daughter would hold up under the pressure of being hostage.

He was worried, however, about her personal safety.

Tehran is a long way from South San Francisco, and Tedford explained how his daughter came to be part of the State Department staff in Iran.

The young woman graduated from El Camino High School in 1973 and then went to work for a bank and an insurance company.

Two years ago a friend working in the State Department encouraged her to apply for a job. She was sent to West Berlin for two years and when that assignment concluded recently, she was sent to Tehran.

Miss Tedford had been in Iran only two months. In the two letters she had written her parents since her arrival, she reported that she liked Iran very much.

She did not mention feeling any concern about her safety or about the political climate of the country. She did remark that a native family had invited her to a barbecue recently.

Tedford said it took him completely by surprise when the State Department notified him that Terri was among the hostages in Iran. From that moment on, his family's life has revolved around awaiting her return.

He noted that his daughter loves her work — he hopes her experience as a hostage does not change her feelings about her job.

State Department officials have asked him to refrain from discussing many aspects of his daughter's release. Tedford said he would respect that out of concern for the hostages who have been let go.

"They are just as innocent as my daughter," he pointed out.

Tedford, a retired Navy chief petty officer, stands behind the United States' position of not turning the former shah over to her daughter's captors.

"We just can't give in to blackmail," he said. "We've made the decision. We've got to stick by it."

Council opposes Brisbane sphere

The Daly City City Council went on record Monday in opposition to making several "borderline" neighborhoods and the Crocker Industrial Park part of Brisbane's sphere of influence.

This action clears the way for city officials to formally oppose the recommendations contained in a recently-released Local Agency Formation Commission report.

A special LAFCO meeeting has been scheduled Nov. 29 at 7:30 p.m. Daly City is expected to express its complete opposition to the report.

The resolution approved by the council states the city has done a good job of providing service to the affected areas, and therefore sees no need to change the sphere of influence.

It requests that the following areas remain within Daly City's jurisdiction: the northeast ridge of San Bruno Mountain, Crocker Industrial Park, Guadalupe Valley Quarry, Owl and Buckeye Canyons, Franciscan Heights and the Bayshore neighborhood.

City Manager Dave Rowe said last week that if those areas are taken out of Daly City's sphere of influence, it could be devastating to the city's budget.

Back after a year absence

Police cadets get start on future careers

By JOHN CURRY
Post Staff Writer

The cadets are back with the Daly City Police Department, after an absence of more than a year because of post-Proposition 13 budget cutbacks.

Four of the college-age youngsters went to work Oct. 15 on the day and graveyard shifts at the department complaint desk in the Civic Center, making a little money and gaining some police experience, at the same time perhaps getting a head start on their own future careers as police officers.

Everybody wins, as Sgt. Tom Reese, the department's training officer, sees it. What the cadet program amounts to is a work experience for majors in administration of justice at Skyline College and College of San Mateo, or criminology, the same thing under a different name, at City College of San Francisco, Reese explained.

"It's good for them to get a firsthand look at the Police Department, and it gives us a chance to look at them. There have been a few we've let go because we didn't feel they would be good police officers. Some have left because they decided police work isn't what they expected it to be."

But, he said, the program has "a very good track record" since it was established in 1969, Reese said.

Four former cadets - Tom Kahle, John Flynn, Gary McLane and Mike Durrenberger - now are officers on the Daly City force. The very first cadet back in 1969, Terry Hanebeck, rose to the rank of sergeant and was Chief David Hansen's chief administratve assistant until resigning a few months ago.

Others include Mike Brunicardi, who recently joined the San Mateo Police Department; Pete Salvi and Dennis Guzman, now with the San Jose Police Department; San Francisco Officer Don Morehouse; Novato Sgt. Gary Barner, brother of Daly City Detective Sgt. Tom Barner; and San Francisco International Airport Officer Gene Kishmishian.

There are four new cadets now, "still learning their way around," Reese said. He noted that there is room in the program for two more. The department had four or five cadets regularly before Proposition 13 was passed and the city fired all of its part-time employees at the time, including the cadets.

But now with the budget back in some semblance of order, the reinstituted program is offering $3.72 an hour for 20 hours a week during the school year and up to 40 hours weekly during school vacations.

Reese said he was surprised, however, that there hasn't been as much interest in the cadet program among young people now as there was in pre-Proposition 13 days. He said he did the promotion at the local colleges, but didn't get as many applications as usual.

"I don't know why," he commented.

The four cadets now on the staff are Mark Orloff, a Skyline College student; Olympia Haramis, at CSM; and Lorraine McGrath and Craig Calvert of San Francisco City College.

Ms. Haramis and Ms. McGrath are only the third and fourth women to become cadets in 10 years, Reese noted.

To qualify as a cadet, the student must be carrying at least 12 units of classes in some area of law enforcement, sociology or public administration "that we can associate with police work," Reese explained.

They also must pass rigid background checks, medical examinations and a polygraph test, the same as applicants for regular police officer positions do, he said.

The job calls mainly for working the complaint desk, answering the phones, greeting visitors, typing the daily bulletin and making entry notations in the jail booking docket, Reese said.

It's purely office work, he added, but an important adjunct is the exposure the cadets get to the department communications center across the hall, the officers coming and going on patrol, and the police administrative process.

When they've learned their way around, they also will ride on patrol occasionally, getting the feel of life on the street with an officer, although Reese said they will wear civilian clothes for that so they won't be confused with sworn officers.

"We also ask that they wear civilian coats over their uniforms when they go to lunch to avoid any mistakes," he noted. The cadets wear no police shields, only name badges.

Part of their familiarization with police work also will include firearms training on the police firing range, Reese said.

Formal training is basically on-the-job, under an experienced desk officer and the station supervisor, he said.

Cadets work any shift their schedules permit, with the responsibilities varying with the shift.

In daytime, for instance, the main tasks are on the desk. At night, the phone, station security and updating of the jail docket are the prime duties, he went on.

Station Supervisor Jim McHenry commented that police work takes some getting used to, by its very nature.

"They were timid when they started," he said of the present group of cadets, "but you can see them firm up with experience."

"They have a pretty good responsibility, with a lot of police-type decisions to make. This can save time by not having to have an officer came in from patrol to the station," he said.

Reese noted also that "You have to have that command presence to make people think you know the answer, even if you don't."

There's also the financial aspect, Reese remarked. With a cadet on the desk, "You don't tie up a $10 an hour regular officer."

But he emphasized that this is a learning situation for the young cadets, and when they encounter something they can't handle, "We encourage them to ask an officer."

There have been cases of enthusiastic cadets "taking too much

In 1911, amid conventions and parades, the women of California received the right to vote. A few months later the Board of Trustees — that's what they called the City Council in those days — of Daly City resolved to urge "the women entitled to vote the advisability of going to the polls on election day during the late morning and early afternoon hours to avoid, so far as possible, congestion at the polls and thus afford male voters better opportunity to vote early in the morning and later in the afternoon."

Quickly the trustees further resolved "that every effort shall be made, in view of this being the first election at which women will have voted in Daly City, to preserve order and administer to their comfort and convenience at and about the voting place; and,

Further that all voters may rest assured that everyone will be afforded ample protection and opportunity to vote notwithstanding reports that may be circulated to the contrary."

So were the ladies satisfied?

No, indeed. During the very meeting when the trustees welcomed the women voters, a representative of the ladies criticized the board for naming only one polling place for the municipal election.

To the man the trustees rose to assure the ladies that the consolidation of three election precincts into one was not done through any ulterior motives on the part of the board.

"It was a matter of economy," one of the trustees said.

Then he expressed his regret over the consolidation but stated that it was too late to do anything about it.

If the response of the first women voters perplexed the governing board of Daly City, they were not alone.

A short time before, an August member of the California Legislature rose to thank the suffragettes in the galleries for their interest in the affairs of their state.

At this a woman rose and shouted.

In the name of the women of California, I beg you to keep your vote of thanks."

The women in the gallery applauded her outburst wildly. Later it was learned that the female orator was unable to vote in California, being a resident of Utah.

The story of the fight for women's suffrage in California was published in 1967 by Reda Davis in her book 'California Women'. Unfortunately the book is out of print, but it can be found in the California collections of most public libraries. In it one can read the story of women working under "sorry conditions" for wages so low that they were "intolerable."

Davis cites statistics, one after another, to show that women worked under substandard conditions, at part time jobs or at piece work and alongside children and immigrants that were being exploited as well. She tells how some women in frustration looked into Hinduism and Theosophy, believing that their present faith had failed them.

Davis tells the story of suffrage conventions that were broken up by cries, 'Go home where you belong," and of male politicians who were known as liberals and progressives but were not in favor or women's rights. She tells of women who led the suffrage movement. Sarah Knox-Goodrich, who was loved for her philanthropy when she took up the unpopular cause of women of Louise La Rue who organized the waitress's union, of Susan Lincoln Mills whose College Equal Suffrage Club was one of the most effective women's organizations in Northern California during the fight for the right to vote.

DONATING THEIR TIME

Youngsters from Parkside Intermediate School in San Bruno volunteered to help repaint school buildings after they were defaced with racist graffiti and swastikas. From left to right are Lana Porteous, Colleen Cronin and (in back) Julie McRae, assisting professional painter Fred Nervarez. Even with the students' help, Superintendent Robert Rottman estimated that it will cost the district $2,000 to restore the school to its previous condition. He noted with dismay that the school was just repainted this past summer. "We don't think the damage was done by our students. We think older kids are responsible," Rottman said, adding that the district is working with police to prevent future acts of vandalism.

The cadet program is the department's own, with no outside funding, and differs from community service officer arrangements in other cities in that the cadets generally are completely new to police work and don't do such police work as parking patrols and community relations.

But it can be more than a beginning.

"It's a built-in inside track to a young person who's interested and qualified to become a police officer," Reese pointed out.

Officer applicants must pass written and oral examinations, and "you can make points with an oral board if you've done this kind of work," Reese said.

The Audubon Society has its own 'bird-a-thon'

By ARVILLE FINACOM

Walk-a-thon. Bike-a-thon. Tel-a-thon. Familiar words and established ways to raise funds for organizations.

But who ever heard of a bird-a-thon?

Members of the California chapters of the National Audubon Society have. And, by now, many of their neighbors, friends and relatives have heard about it too.

Audubon's first California Birdathon takes place during the 24 hours of Nov. 24 as participants keep a field check list of species seen. Prior to the event, birders are asked to line up pledges from sponsors, suggesting a minimum of 10 cents for each species sighted.

Experienced birders will be able to estimate the number of bird species they'll probably see, thus giving donors a rough idea of the money value of their pledges.

Perhaps the first question any prospective donor asks is, "How will the funds be used?"

The first California Birdathon has a two-fold goal: an attempt to save the California Condor from extinction and an attempt to keep California's Mono Lake from becoming a dead sea.

There's always a temptation to say, "But I can't see how either affects me directly. Why should I care?"

Although the goals of the National Audubon Society may seem idealistic, its members believe that both understanding and protection of the natural heritage is as practical and necessary as the preservation of historical/cultural roots.

For more than 70 years, since President Theodore Roosevelt popularized "conservation" and made the word part of American political language, National Audubon has worked to heighten public awareness.

Through public-centered education and legislative lobbying efforts, National Audubon members seek "to condemn unnecessary pollution of water, air and land; unwarranted destruction of essential wildlife habitats; premature extinction of species; waste of energy and other invaluable resources, as well as short-sighted, stop-gap approaches to long-range problems."

Audubon action is far from obstructionist. Rather, it centers on continuing education as the sole sensible source of solution to environmental dilemmas stemming from irresponsible at worst, unwise at best, kinds of land, water, air and creature exploitation.

The dramatic decrease in the population of the California Condor — less than 30 birds of this species now survives — has been due primarily to habitat disturbance and destruction as human populations and their activities moved into nesting areas.

A portion of the funds raised in the First California Birdathon — donors may designate the area preferred — will go for research about the birds, protection of existing habitats, and study of a number of proposals designed to increase the dwindling condor population.

The lowering of the water level (over 45 feet since 1940) in Mono Lake, which lies in the desert tableland east of Yosemite National Park, not only is resulting in the rapid development of a "salt sea" which will be of little use to the human population now draining it through excessive water diversions but also in the complete elimination of a freshwater habitat for the animal life, especially the birds, of the area.

True, lakes do dry up naturally into salt seas and eventually salt sinks, but the natural process takes centuries instead of decades and during it the animal population gradually changes in adjustment to the changing conditions.

So rapid is man-caused change, however, that wildlife does not have the time to adjust. Extinction of local species becomes the rule rather than the exception.

California Audubon, teamed with a number of other conservation groups, plans to use Birdathon funds to encourage protection of the lake as a continuing freshwater resource not only for wildlife but on a self-renewing basis, for human populations as well.

If a local Sequoia Chapter Auduboner hasn't yet approached you for a pledge, you can sponsor either Condor Naturalist John Borneman or Mono Lake Committee Chairman David Gaines by sending your pledge amount per species to the National Audubon Society, 555 Audubon Place, Sacramento, 95825 before Nov. 24.

Both Borneman and Gaines estimate they will sight between 150 and 200 species. Pledgers will receive an exact count in early December. Fulfilled pledges are completely tax deductible. So are donations in any amount.

In addition to planning for Birdathon activities, Sequoia Auduboners spruced up the Burlingame Shorebird Sanctuary recently. Eight station wagon loads of debris were picked up from the tiny creek mouth marsh off Airport Boulevard, next to the Benihana Restaurant.

On Dec. 30, Sequoia Auduboners will take part in the traditional Christmas Bird Count. Birders will work at specified areas along the bay shore, at ocean sites, in local parks, along city streets and in home gardens. If you're interested in knowing more about activities of the local chapter, send a postcard to: Sequoia Audubon Society, P.O. Box 1131, Burlingame, 94010.

Audubon members are not alone in their concern about understanding and preserving the natural heritage. The National Park Service shares the interest. The Bay Area, because of its highly urban characteristics, is a prime target for federal environmental education efforts such as "The Wilderness Concert," a multi-media dance performance "based on themes of the American wilderness aimed at uniting urban residents with their natural heritage."

If you missed the Nov. 6 performance at Skyline College, several others are scheduled: Nov. 17, 8 p.m. at City College, Ocean and Phelan avenues, San Francisco; Nov. 21, 23 and 24 at Fort Mason Center and Dec. 6-8 at the San Francisco Presidio Theater. Performances are free. Call 556-0560 for a complete Bay Area schedule.

There is a still more personal aspect of natural heritage exploration. What has come to be a Thanksgiving weekend tradition at Coyote Hills Regional Park near Fremont happens 10 a.m. to noon Nov. 24 as ranger/naturalists lead an "edible wild" walk. Plants of the marshes and hills are sampled, and the history of their Indian and early settler uses is detailed. Recipes for use today are shared. The walk is free and picnicking in the park a delightful afterward activity.

There is a $1 per car park entrance fee.

Foods of a different time and place highlight another Thanksgiving weekend event. "An Elizabethean Food Fair," Nov. 24, at 3:30 p.m. at California Academy of Sciences in Golden Gate Park is part of the "Come and Live In Shakespeare's World" presentations by the Berkeley Shakespeare Festival in connection with the Folger Library exhibition, "Shakespeare, the Globe and the World," currently at Cal Academy.

If you miss it then, "Food Fair" repeats Dec. 1 at 2 p.m.

Serramonte's homecoming was quite a success

By ROBIN MOELLER
Commissioner of Publicity
Serramonte High School

Serramonte High School's Homecoming Dance Nov. 9 was one of the most successful in the school's history.

About 600 people (a school attendance record of homecoming dances) attended, raising more than $1,000 for the student activity program.

The homecoming dance featured a disc jockey from Disco Five Disco. The dance went well and continued from 8 to 11. Many tickets were sold at the door for $3.

The forerunners to the homecoming dance were not quite as successful. The traditional pre-game rally was cancelled due to the strike. Then the game was cancelled at 3:30 because of the lack of a required doctor. It was rescheduled for the following day at 1 p.m., however.

This year's Serramonte football team includes Chico Arcaya, junior(1); Eric Jones, senior(2); Stephan Hardy, junior(4); Daryl Williams, senior(5); Joe Nobles, senior(6); Kimball Hollins, junior(8); Robert Williams, senior(9); John Alcncher, junior(17); Murry Johnson, senior(20); Phillip Franks, junior(21); Eric Hayes, senior(23); Rob Cranshaw, senior(25); Ernest Smith, senior(30); Jeff Jones, senior(35); Karl Knapp, senior(36); Al Moore, senior(37); Jon Dixon, junior(39); Clarence Baytop, junior(45); Chuck Thompson, senior(42); Moni Tialavea, senior(50); William Lara, senior(51); Adam Zielenski, junior(55); Tim Kuchac, junior(57); Many Tuimavave, senior(58); Herman AhSue(61); Gary Friend, junior(61); Pat Lindstrom, junior(63), Vada Boyd, senior(66); Mark Charles, senior(70) Jeff Morris, senior(77); Steve Cardarelli, junior(84); Jerald Waters, senior(87); Jeff Cooper, senior(89); Darnell Grier, senior(49).

With the strike over, Serramonte is getting reorganized.

Al Campbell has taken over Dion Dubois' job as acting principal.

Superintendent Dr. Floyd Gonella and the Board of Trustees suspended Dubois during the first few weeks of school because of Dubois' alleged decision to refuse to arrest striking personnel who might trespass on campus.

Dubois had been at Serramonte for two school years. Dubois was suspended from his duties even though no one had reportedly trespassed.

Many students and parents as well as teachers have been actively involved in trying to get Dubois reinstated.

Since his suspension, Dubois has been reassigned to a position at Thornton High School.

Campbell now is acting principal, a difficult job amidst the confusion of the strike. He gives the following information about credits, grades and other important school-related issues.

Basically, the credit system is based on a 43-day grading period. The 43 days represents a quarter.

The 43 days are broken down into two 17-day grading periods and one nine-day grading period. During the 17 days, students can earn one unit of credit. during the nine days, one-half unit of credit.

Campbell also said the grades you are receiving or have received do, in fact, count. These grades will go on your transcripts.

Mr. Terranova, our new vice principal of operations, handles the clerical and cafeteria staff, the school budget, student discipline, evaluating teachers and supervision of buildings and grounds.

"I deal with such a variety of things it keeps me active," he said.

Terranova has permanently taken over Mr. McClanahan's position. McClanahan currently is at Oceana High School, where Terranova came from. According to Terranova, the switch was the district's decision.

Terranova was born and raised in San Francisco, graduated from Balboa High School and attended City College where he got his bachelor of arts degree. He later attended San Francisco State where he received a master degree in school administration.

After serving two years in the army, Terranova worked in the Radiation lab at the University of Califonia, Berkeley. He also taught at James Denman Junior High, Balboa High, Westmoor High and Oceana High. For eight years after he stopped teaching, Terranova was involved in student discipline.

When asked to compare Serramonte and Oceana students, he said, "I find them pretty much the same . . . I'm looking forward to working here at Serramonte."

Serramonte has a serious bus problem. There are only three school buses this year at Serramonte, compared with 10 last year. The cut in spending, due to Proposition 13, may be the reason for the cutback. Those who are not among the fortunate to take one of the three routes opened are forced to find other means of transportation.

A lot of people are turning to SamTrans, but this isn't always the answer. Some complain of being passed up at the stop, putting up with rude bus drivers and experiencing late buses.

Driving to school could be an answer. Increasing gas prices make this an expensive mode of travel, however. Another answer to the problem could be for the Board of Trustees to bring back the buses and find another way to reduce spending. Serramonte's large attendance numbers are decreasing and some believe it would increase if the buses returned.

Students are complaining of crowded SamTbans buses and resent paying bus fare twice a day — believing the district responsible for paying student transportation fees. Complaints of disorganized SamTrans schedules also have been voiced.

This year's cheerleading staff has already put one performances at the rallies and football games. They have been practicing this summer and after school.

The cross country team had a 3.3-mile race at Golden Gate Park against McAteer and Lowell Oct. 27. Nino Hernandez and Tom Swope received gold medals for the varsity. June Hoppin received a gold medal for girls and Ed Escobar and Eric Santos received gold medals for freshmen.

Serramonte is currently blasting music over the loudspeakers in the lunch room during fifth period. There has been some conflict as to the music played.

There are a small group of people who listen to both soul and rock. The only thing they can do is compromise and vary what's played.

DECK THE HALLS

The Westlake Catholic Women will present "Deck the Halls," their annual Christmas Boutique and cookie-candy sale Dec. 8-9 in the parish hall at Our Lady of Mercy. Mrs. Eileen Barsi, left, Boutique chairwoman, and Mrs. Bettyann Hinchman, cookie-candy chairwoman, promise many delicious homebaked goodies as well as beautiful Christmas decorations and gift items. Santa Claus will be on hand for the children with some surprises. The ladies have invited everyone to bring family and friends to shop for that unique gift or beautifully decorated homebaked goodie.

Family planning class offered at Mary's Help

"We teach a method of natural family planning that is medically safe and reliable as well as inexpensive to learn and practice," said Mary's Help Hospital natural family planning instructor Molly Woerner.

Mrs. Woerner will introduce the concept of natural family planning to interested couples and individuals today. This initial session will be followed up with eight personnel sessions.

The ovulation method of natural family planning was developed by Australian Drs. John and Lyn Billings, a husband-wife physicians team.

It is based upon the fact that whenever a woman is fertile, she has a characteristic cervical mucus discharge which she can learn to observe and interpret. The couple then abstains from sexual relations during the few days she is fertile, or has relations if they are trying to conceive.

"Once the Billings Ovulation Method of natural family planning is learned it can be used at any stage of the woman's reproductive life, such as during short or long menstrual cycles, breastfeeding, or premenopause stage. The method is not dependent upon previous cycle patterns or calculations," said Mrs. Woerner.

For registration and further information about the program, contact Mrs. Woerner at the Mary's Help Hospital Natural Family Planning Center at 991-6600.

Antifreeze danger to animals

By DR. DAVID BARNETT

It was not much of a puddle — just a stream of liquid dripping from under the car. It had a pleasant aroma and a sweet taste that cats and other animals find palatable.

A small gray tabby went over and licked it. It was water that had leaked from a cracked radiator hose in the homeowner's car, and it contained a high percentage of antifreeze/coolant.

Within a short time the cat began to act weak and nervous. The gait became more of a stagger than a walk. Soon vomiting began. By the time the owners noticed the problem the small cat had slipped into a coma. The cat was rushed to a veterinarian and was saved by prompt treatment. If defected promptly most pets can survive antifreeze poisoning.

According to a survey by the American Animal Hospital Association, 76 percent of its members reported treating one or more cases of antifreeze poisoning. Many rated antifreeze poisoning as a serious problem in their area.

We all know that antifreeze is not to be drunk. The warning labels are right on the container. Unfortunately, we seem to forget that animals can't read and it's up to us to keep them from poisoning themselves.

What makes antifreeze/coolant so dangerous is its content of ethylene glycol, which prevents engine boil-over in the summer and freezing in the winter. To get an idea of how toxic ethylene glycol is, here are some figures:

- One teaspoon of antifreeze can kill an average size cat.
- Two and one-half tablespoons will kill a 15-pound dog and five tablespoons will kill a 30-pound dog.

Annexation group gives itself name

A new group dedicated to making the San Bruno Park School District's boundaries the same as those of the city of San Bruno gave itself a name Wednesday night.

The 30 persons who attended the meeting decided to call themselves the "Committee for United San Bruno Schools."

The committee also agreed to begin a study of the financial impact of the annexation plan, under which students from the Pacific Heights, Portola Highlands, Monte Verde and Lomita Park sections of San Bruno would attend elementary school in the San Bruno Park School District and high school in the San Mateo Union High School District.

Students from those areaa currently attend elementary schools in the Laguna Salada School District, the South San Francisco Unified School District and the Millbrae School District.

When they reach high school age, they attend two schools in the San Mateo Union High School District, one in the South San Francisco Unified School District and one in the Jefferson Union High School District.

The committee's next meeting will be Nov. 26 at 7:30 p.m. at the Portola Highland Recreation Center, Amador and Lassen Drive in San Bruno.

Thanksgiving Dining

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD ★ JOHNSON

Nick's, Moonraker open Thanksgiving

A wonderful experience awaits you at the end of a scenic drive to Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, if your plans include dining at NICK'S or THE MOONRAKER. Special menus of festive entrees will be served at both restaurants, plus a special holiday breakfast at Nick's. Owner NICK GUST, his gracious wife, LORRAINE, and son CHUCK invite you to let them help make your Thanksgiving Day memorable. (CAPTAIN CHARLES will not be open Nov. 22) ... DENNY YUNE, owner/chef of the unique HANA JAPAN Japanese Steakhouse restaurant in San Mateo, goes on the theory that many holiday diners may want to treat themselves to hibachi-style teriyaki steak or similar tasty specialties. So he's going to be open Thanksgiving Day with regular hours and menu ... NORM and FERN LARSON will open their KING'S TABLE in Redwood City on Thanksgiving Day offering a bountiful all-you-can-eat buffet with special holiday selections. Dinners will be featured all day from 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. for only $4.25 (children dine for even less) ... All the unusual drink concoctions served at LA PINATA, popular Mexican restaurant in downtown Burlingame, are made from Owner CHRIS VLASSIS' special recipes ... Cordial MURRAY LEHR is posting the same prices on his Thanksgiving dinner menu at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE in San Francisco that he featured last year. The doors open at noon to accommodate the crowds who will flock in to feast in a beautiful garden in full bloom.

Reserve now for Rosebud's feast

BILL MONRO is getting lots of reservations for Thanksgiving dinner at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of San Francisco's Geary St. "Theater Row." Bill will open the doors at 3 p.m. and feature a special one-price Thanksgiving dinner menu (served complete) ... PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce STEAKERY, on the lower level of the S.F. Hilton Tower, lures seafood lovers with gourmet specialties such as Fresh salmon topped with a pear marinated in Amaretto almond liqueur, then wrapped in a puff pastry shell and baked to perfection ... For lunch or dinner, KOHARU JAPANESE CUISINE in San Mateo is the talk of the town. Delectable dishes include Sashimi, Chicken Karage, Broiled Fish and Tamago Yaki Tsukemono. If it's not on the menu, ask Owner ROSE OSAKI and she'll accommodate your appetite ... Chef ARNAUD'S authentic Basque full family-style dinners served at LES JON'S in Burlingame are attracting more and more appreciative diners from all over the Peninsula and from San Francisco, where they remember Arnaud from his years in North Beach ... Celebration of the first Thanksgiving Day under the new ownership of THE CYPRESS HOUSE in Half Moon Bay promises to be a very special event under the inspired menu planning of Owner HAEKUN CHOI. A special turkey dinner will be served from 4 to 9 p.m.

Holiday treats at Old Country Inn

Due to insistence from patrons who wanted something special in the way of a holiday dinner, MARILYN and NATHAN SCHMIDT agreed to open their OLD COUNTRY INN on Thanksgiving Day. In addition to holiday turkey and duckling, the regular menu of dinner entrees will be served from 3:30 to 9 p.m. ... The menu at JIM SNIADECKI'S SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S in Redwood City offers a choice of 23 entrees (12 beef items, six fish entrees, lamb chops, cannelloni and chicken) ... Fanciers of home-cooked German food from authentic old-world recipes will be glad to know that regular dining hours will prevail on Thanksgiving Day at TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT, a cozy little German and continental restaurant in downtown Moss Beach, which is a short jaunt from anywhere on the Peninsula. Diners wishing a holiday turkey dinner must make inquiry and reservations well in advance. The regular menu will be offered ... It's only once in a rare while that the familiar landmark complex of VINCE'S Seafood and Italian restaurant, cocktail lounge, and Fresh Fish Depot is ever closed. But Thanksgiving Day is one such time. As the following day is Friday, a big fish day, you may be sure that Owner NINA LICATA will be back on deck ready to bring you the finest in seafood and Italian specialties.

Ray Plunkett's year 'round resort

Music at the airport

Musical groups from the nine-county Bay Area are invited to participate in a Christmas Festival at the San Francisco International Airport Dec. 10-24, designed to delight hundreds of thousands of travelers with the sights and sounds of the holiday season, according to Airports' Director Richard R. Heath.

"From 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day, music ranging from carols to Renaissance selections to ethnic melodies to folk tunes will celebrate the rich and diverse heritage of the area," he continued.

"San Francisco is perhaps the first airport in the country — and possibly the world — to embark upon such a project to make the many travelers to and from the City feel welcome and wanted, and Christmas seemed the perfect time for its launching."

Groups interested in taking part in this festival can call 392-4880 for details.

Mrs. Henry Fuhs is in charge of the "Gift Shop" booth which will offer a wide variety of gifts for the holiday season, including gift wrap papers, Jewish artifacts and jewelry.

There will be new and next-to-new merchandise available in another booth, as well as a white-elephant table, chaired by Mrs. Ralph Jacobson and Mrs. Aaron Smith.

Bradley T. Morris, 11, is in charge of the Books Booth.

Mrs. John Witham is chairing arts and crafts.

A cake and "sweet table" will be among other booths, where one may purchase home-baked items for Holiday entertaining, at nominal prices. This booth will be chaired by Mrs. Leone R. Graubart.

Jefferson celebrates its grid playoff status

As Jefferson High's football players strolled toward their post-game locker room Friday, the Indians were happy. Jeff had just beaten visiting El Camino 13-6, keeping alive its hopes for a North Peninsula League co-championship — and a berth in this week's Central Coast Section Region I playoffs.

But the Indians were still restrained in their joy — much like a team that has just scored a late touchdown, but still needs the extra point to pull into a tie.

Jeff had done its part, but now the Indians — shooting for the school's first NPL football championship in more than a half-century — were hoping desperately for the outside help they needed.

They got it. And when the word became official outside Jeff's locker-room that Half Moon Bay had upset Serramonte 6-2, thus lifting Jeff into the CCS playoffs, the euphoria of the Indians and their lingering fans was really something to see.

Hollering, screaming, yelling, palm-slapping, singing, even a few tears.

"All season, you guys have been saying you're number one," shouted jubilant Jeff Coach Lou Sanchez, standing on a table with hands raised. "Okay, now we can say that for sure!"

Jeff, Serramonte and Westmoor all finished NPL play with 5-2 records. However, the Indians get the nod because they beat both the Regents and the Rams in the teams' head-to-head meetings. Jeff's first-round playoff opponent won't be determined until a group of CCS coaches selects the region's at-large team at a special meeting to be held Sunday.

Because of the heavy rain that fell throughout the contest, Jeff and El Camino had trouble sustaining offensive drives. Passing was a lost art, although Jeff's field, considering the horrible weather conditions, was in excellent shape.

"It was really tough trying to pass out there today," said Jeff quarterback Richard Rodgers, who completed only one of five aerials, but carried the ball eight times for 32 brusing yards. "My hand was so cold, it was almost numb. I couldn't grip the ball very well, so it was tough throwing it."

El Camino struck first, after the Colts' Paul Moschini recovered a Jeff fumble at the Indian 18-yard line early in the opening quarter. Four plays later, Camino placekicker Scott Leet boomed a 31-yard field goal through the uprights, giving the Colts a 3-0 edge with 6:38 left in the first period.

Jeff bounced right back, driving 80 yards in 11 plays. Fullback Sam Smith carried five times along the way, dragging two Colt defenders across the goal line on the fifth haul. Smith's touchdown carry came on a fourth down-and-two play from the six with 2:13 remaining in the opening period. Placekicker Fred Proano kicked the extra point, and Jeff led 7-3.

In the second quarter, El Camino mounted a serious scoring threat after Jeff was penalized for roughing the Colts' punter, giving Camino a first down at the Indian 30. After a one-yard loss, Colt quarterback Rob Canepa found 5-8 running back Robert Tenerowicz behind Rodgers, Jeff's safety. Tenerowicz made the catch and went down at the Indian four.

But Jeff's defense — which ultimately limited Camino to 86 yards in total offense — rose to the occasion. Running back Dave Silva was nailed for a one-yard loss. On second down, Canepa threw incomplete, and Camino was penalized 15 yards for having an illegal receiver downfield.

On third-and-goal from the 20, Canepa, under the heavy rush (as he often was all afternoon), was intercepted by Jeff linebacker Doug Cheatum. The Indians had repelled the Colts' deepest drive of the game.

After a scoreless third quarter, El Camino Coach Lonnie Beckenhauer had a tough decision to make midway through the final period. The Colts were facing a fourth-and-eigth situation at the Jeff 15. Beckenhauer, giving his defensive unit — not to mention Leet — a vote of confidence, decided to go for the field goal.

Leet scoccer-styled a 31-yarder through the uprights, cutting the Indians' lead to 7-6 with 5:23 remaining.

Camino's defense came through, forcing Jeff to punt after three plays gained five yards. The Colts took over at their own 29.

Canepa, on a second-and-seven play from the 32, tried to hit wide receiver John Cowen on a down-and-out pattern near the right sideline. Uncovered when he first came to the line of scrimmage, Cowen had waved noticeably to Canepa, who looked his way and changed the call at the line of scrimmage.

"Before the ball was snapped, I heard Richard (Rodgers) saying that they had a receiver open over there on my side," said Jeff Cornerback Thadeus Gill, "He (Canepa) was always looking at the receiver he was going to throw to head of time, so I moved over and saw it coming."

Gill stepped in front of Cowen, picked off Canepa's pass at the 34 and tore down the sideline for a touchdown with 2:31 left. When Jeff's PAT kick was booked wide, the score froze at 13-6, and the Colts still had a chance to win it with a touchdown and two-point conversion.

After Canepa gained two yards on a keeper, however, Jeff forced three straight incomplete passes, and the Indians were home free — and in the CCS playoffs.

Ironically, Jeff and Serramonte were involved in a similar struggle last season — only, in the opposite shoes. Serramonte won its last game while Jeff was losing a close decision to Terra Nova, giving the Regents a 6-1 league record and an outright NPL title.

When, in the midst of the Indians' post-game celebration, Sanchez told the Indians they would be having a practice session at 10 in the morning, the groans were outnumbered by the cheers.

"This is what we've been working for," said Rodgers. "This is what we're been working for."

THE HARD WAY

TOUGH FOOTING

Serramonte High's Daryl Williams (5) is hit and slips down during Friday's unusually wet game at Half Moon Bay; among the pursuers is HMB's Mike Seaton (64).

Serramonte High's football team deserved better.

The Regents needed to beat host Half Moon Bay Friday to secure an outright North Peninsula League championship. But the Regents succumbed to the Cougars and the horrendous weather conditions, losing 6-2.

The loss dropped Serramonte into a three-way tie for the NPL title with Jefferson and Westmoor, each of which won Friday. Jefferson will represent the NPL in playoff action next week, having beaten both the Rams and Regents in league play.

The game started under threatening skies, but the field was dry and footing was good. The wind was blowing about 25 miles per hour.

Late in the first period, the downpour started. With the wind still howling, the storm lashed into the coast from the South. Rain came down in torrents, making even the simplest play nearly impossible. By halftime the field was partially under water.

And more importantly, the host Cougars were ahead at halftime 6-0. It had looked like one score would win the game, and it did. A tie would have given the title to the Regents, but they couldn't quite pull it off.

With 6:04 left in the first half, Serramonte punter Chico Arceaya went back to punt from his own 35. The punt snap got up into the gusts and sailed far over Arceaya's head.

Before he could track down the ball in the end zone, Half Moon Bay's Tim Bettencourt recovered it for a Cougar touchdown.

Serramonte had only one real chance after that. Noseguard Manny Tuimavave fell on a Cougar tumble on the HMB 35 with 8:10 left to play. It looked like a golden opportunity.

The first crisis came on a fourth and three on the 14. Darryl Williams bulled his way for the first down — with all of three inches to spare.

Serramonte picked up seven yards down to the five on its first two plays. Quarderback Robert Williams fumbled the snap from center and lost two yards but recovered the ball, on third down.

That left the Regents with a fourth-and-six on the HMB seven. They elected to try to pick up the first down on a quarterback sweep. Robert Williams rolled right and got near the first down.

The measurement showed Serramonte had come up almost a yard short, and a jubilant Half Moon Bay took over on its own two.

Two quarterback sneaks netted four yards. Bettencourt went back into punt formation on third down (HMB punted four times on third down). On orders from Coach Tim Opezzo, Bettencourt let the ball sail over his head for an automatic safety with 2:05 left.

That made it 6-2, and the Cougars would get a free kick. After a 10-yard runback by Darryl Williams, Serramonte had another shot on the HMB 45.

Three incomplete passes left the Regents with a fourth-and-10. Trying to fool the defense, Darryl Williams took the handoff. He squirted through a small hole and tried desperately to get the first down. He came up two yards short and HMB took over.

Quarterback Charlie Baker fell on the ball four times, running all but 32 seconds off the clock. Serramonte took over on the Cougar 35.

Robert Williams' first pass was intercepted by linebacker Mike Seaton, ending one of the most frustrating afternoons in Serramonte's history.

"Our game is throwing the ball," said an emotionally exhausted and dejected Serramonte Coach Ken Cook. "And you certainly couldn't throw the ball today.

"We ran the ball all right, but we're small. We rely on quickness, and in this slop, it's tough to move people off the line," he said.

"They didn't win the game. We gave it to them. One of their coaches told me after the game, 'that's the only way we could have beat you.'"

Matisi may return

Another championship may have whetted Westmoor High football coach Pete Matisi's appetite for one more season on the sidelines.

At the beginning of the year, Matisi announced that this season would be his last as Ram coach. But now Matisi, who was guided the Daly City team for the past 23 gridiron campaigns, admits that he has had second thoughts about retiring.

"It is in doubt. I said I was going to quit, but we have one helluva football team coming back next year. I could possibly stay for another year," Matisi said.

If Friday is a preview of what next season's Ram team can do, it is no wonder Matisi is considering staying. Led by junior quarterback Tom Orloff, who fired two touchdown passes to wide receiver Stuart Ramirez, Westmoor gained a co-championship in the North Peninsula League with a rain-drenched 14-0 victory over host Terra Nova.

The win, Westmoor's fourth in a row, gives Westmoor a 5-2 NPL mark and a first-place tie with Jefferson and Serramonte. Jeff will advance to regional competition by virtue of triumphs over the Rams and the Regents.

The championship, Matisi's seventh at Westmoor, was especially pleasing to the veteran mentor, because after the Rams were blown out by Jefferson early in the season, it appeared Westmoor club was headed for a mediocre year.

"At the beginning of the season we were making stupid mistakes," Matisi said. "We only ran three plays, but we ran them from many different sets, and for some reason a lot of our players couldn't comprehend this. We had a lot of offside and motion penalties.

"But all at once they started to do it. I think we matured as a team. We did a great job once we got the hang of it.

"It was a very gratifying season. We had a young ballclub. Most of our offense will be back next season," Matisi said.

One player whom the Ram coach or his successor will be especially glad to have back is quarterback Orloff, who early suffered the ups-and-downs typical of a first year varsity signalcaller, but emerged as a poised and mature leader.

"I think he's the best quarterback in the league. He has really matured. He put it together toward the end," Matisi said.

Orloff put the Rams on the scoreboard in the second quarter of the season finale for both clubs as he connected with his favorite receiver, the speedy Ramirez, for a 30-yard TD strike. The Rams had tallied on a safety when TN punter Rick Miller kicked the ball out of the end zone rather than risk a block.

Three minutes after that score and another short punt, Orloff again found Ramirez in the end zone for a 6-yard strike. That ended the scoring for the day as the torrential downpour turned the field into a quagmire and the football into fumbleball.

"We used the shotgun formation, which is ideal for this type of weather because the quarterback doesn't have to sprint out," Matisi said. "Their quarterback was trying to drop back and could not."

"We just couldn't get the ball to him (quarterback Rick Miller)," Tiger coach Bob Lotti said. "We must have fumbled 15 times. We blew an opportunity to score in the second quarter, first and goal on the four. We have nobody to blame but ourselves. They did a good job."

Matisi, while certainly pleased with the prospect of having the nucleus of a championship club returning, noted that if two full-time coaches could be found for the frosh-soph squad, he would step down.

"If we can get two capable frosh-soph coaches, I will hang them up. The two youngsters we have now are doing a capable job, but one is a fireman and one owns a racquetball club. We need full-time coaches.

"I still haven't made up my mind. It is still a question mark."

Westmoor	0	14	0	0—14
Terra Nova	0	0	0	0—0

W — Safety, Willer punted ball out of end zone.
W — Ramirez 30 pass from Orloff (pass failed).
W — Ramirez 6 pass from Orloff (kick failed).

SSF netters tip Camino

League-leading South San Francisco High ended its scheduled volleyball season in style, beating cross-town rival El Camino, 15-13, 15-10 Friday in preparation for this week's playoffs.

SSF and El Camino will square off again in the first round of the playoffs, scheduled for Tuesday, at 7 p.m. At approximately 9 p.m, second-place Terra Nova will meet Westmoor. All contests will be held at South SF High.

South SF looked confident and poised against El Camino. Karen O'Sullivan's setting gave the offense a chance to shine. Spiking well were senior Mimi Pe and roundhouse slugging freshman Scheron Douglas.

Sue Koo aced five of seven good serves in the second game and got support from smooth defenders Laura Bruno and Irene Giannoulas as Westmoor downed Oceana 15-4 and 15-6 in the Rams' gym.

NPL JV Scores: South SF d. Westmoor 15-12, 15-11; Westmoor d. Oceana 15-9, 15-10.

San Mateo loses, 31-29

LOS GATOS — There was another college football game played in the South Peninsula Saturday.

It wasn't very big, though.

It wasn't played on the spacious Farm. It was contested on little Los Gatos High's field. There weren't 85,000 screaming fans, either. More like 85 mildly vocal spectators.

But to the people involved, it meant a great deal, as West Valley edged College of San Mateo 31-29.

Evidence of how important the game was to the two head coaches involved was more than evident on a crucial play late in the fourth quarter.

West Valley led by two points with 1:35 left in the game. The Vikings were stopped a yard short of the first down in a 3rd-and-4 situation from their own 40-yard line. It appeared West Valleywould be forced to punt and give San Mateo one last chance to score a winning field goal.

But a flag was thrown on the play. Obviously an offsides call, but against whom? It seemed CSM still had life as the ref marched the five yards off against West Valley. But he made a mistake.

Howard Cosell is a phony—plain and simple

Le Pacini

Howard Cosell. The name sends shudders up the spine of many people. Personally, it sends shudders DOWN my spine, and once they reach bottom, they lodge.

I've been seriously trying to analyze why Howard is such a pain in the . . . sends shudders down my spine.

I have finally isolated the element.

It has nothing to do with the fact that Howard attempts to pass money off as knowledge, even expertise.

Or that he's arrogant.

It's that he's a phony.

Howard must have nightmares that he will wake up some morning with vocabulary amnesia, reduced to uttering only simple declarative sentences.

Such a catastrophe, of course, would prevent him from impressing the common man. And, God knows, if Cosell doesn't impress us with his vocabulary, he's not going to impress us with anything.

What makes Howard a phony is that in trying to convince us that he is bringing intellectualism to sports by using his tongue as a rhetorical broadsword, he actually is showing little respect for perhaps the richest language in the world, and is in fact stultifying rather than enriching the enjoyment of sports action with "big" words that tend more to make the listener wonder what in hell Howard said rather than wonder what happened.

That is not good announcing. One should sit in front of the television set with a beer, not a dictionary.

Cosell either has not recognized, or for self-serving purposes, refused to recognize that our language is actually two in one — the written and the spoken; and that it is constructed in different strata, each strata being useful for its own purposes. The language strata, however, run vertical rather than horizontal. There are no "highs" or "lows," merely appropriateness.

We all have separate written and spoken vocabularies.

The written vocabulary for the average American is hundreds of words larger than his spoken vocabulary. There is good reason for this. When we speak, we can supplement or enrich our words with gestures, facial expressions, voice inflections, giving each word the shading that we wish.

When writing, we have only that cold ink on that otherwise blank piece of paper, so ge need different tools, the most obvious of which is a larger vocabulary, with the words themselves giving the proper nuances of meaning.

Technically, there is no such thing as a perfect synonym. If there were, well, there just wouldn't have been an alternative word developed. Each word similar to another is only similar. All words have their own delicate variances of meaning.

Thus, we might have to write, as I did two paragraphs above, the word "stultifying," but if we were talking to a friend and wanted to explain what Cosell was doing to the spoken language, we might say, "The guy's crippling the flow of action," using a hand gesture and a softening of the voice to tone down the harshness of "cripple," which would then give it at the appropriate shade of meaning.

Even our spoken language is designed to be used differently at different times in different places and situations for different people. Howard would say, "Use language appropriate to the milieu." I say, consider your immediate environment when speaking.

Let's say you're a teacher. You would use one vocabulary for your students (perhaps more, depending on grade and intelligence levels, etc.) when dealing with them in a formal classroom situation, and then perhaps another when you meet them, say, at the super market.

You converse with your colleagues in the appropriate jargon, and change your attitude and vocabulary when talking to your principal. You speak with your spouse in another manner, with your parents in yet another, and adjust your banter with friends at a poker game.

The problem with Howard Cosell is that he is using written vocabulary on the air. Even as written vocabulary, I'm afraid that Herbert Read would have pronounced it "false eloquence." Read was a midwestern English professor who in 1928 wrote a book on the proper use of English prose which became a standard text for English majors throughout the country, and, to my knowledge, still is.

Read wrote, "The difference between true and false eloquence is easily perceived, and it is only under special conditions, such as those created by an excited crowd, that the pretense of eloquence can have any effect. It then serves to stir gross and uncriticized emotions into a state of self-intoxication which has no relation to the real content of the expression. Indeed, such eloquence when analyzed will usually be found to consist of many high-sounding phrases of little inherent meaning."

If that hadn't been written half a century ago, one could swear that Professor Read wrote it between halves of Monday Night Football.

I have often spent time in the company of highly educated, truly eloquent people, and have never heard any of the most erudite of them speak as Cosell does when he's, for goodness sake, describing a sporting event.

Dizzy Dean fractured the English language, and Sparky Anderson absolutely destroys formal syntax. But when discussing their game of baseball, they are far more eloquent than Cosell.

Check through the poetry of Robert Frost or the prose of Ernest Hemingway, as two of many examples, and count how many words of more than two syllables they use in an entire text. They will be rare, I can tell you.

An old journalist once implored me, "Say it simple." Not an eloquent statement by Howard Cosell's standards, but I knew exactly what he meant.

Football notes:

I won't mention the team, because why embarrass some college kids. But on one recent weekend I watched a team win a game that had a 4-6 record going in, which means that they had evened their record — and against a not particularly good team, either.

But as the television cameras focused on jubilant players milling along the sidelines, what were they doing? Shooting their index fingers into the air and shouting into the cameras, "We're number one."

Number one in what? Their school, maybe. In that game, yes. But if those proclamations meant more than that to the players, one has to wonder what they're feeding college football players before the games, nowadays. You can't focus on the tube on a Saturday afternoon anymore without seeing at least three or four teams claiming to be "number one!!!"

It is very confusing to the average fan, and must cause a lot of disappointments when the "number ones" get picked off by a .500 team the next week.

It's nice for a coach to instill in his players confidence. But he should ctop at encouraging naivete.

Paul McDonald, the outstandin USC quarterback, has a collegiate career interception rate of just 3.0. To put that in better perspective, if McDonald were in the NFL at this moment, his interception rate would be better only by Joe Ferguson's (2.8) and Roger Staubach's (2.0), and he has thrown more than 100 passes (in his career) than they have thus far this season.

Rich Motylewski, one of the best lineman in the history of both schools he attended (Terra Nova High School and San Francisco State University), where he was All-League at all levels, is now student teaching at South San Francisco High School and assisting in coaching the Warriors' football team.

Important Note Regarding Prices

The prices shown in the right-hand column on each page of this catalog are for reference only, and no representation is made to the effect that any of these prices is the usual or ordinary price at which a particular items is sold, or our present or former selling price. These reference prices are provided to you as a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our catalog distribution area. They are often useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer.

Most of the prices shown in the right hand column are manufacturer's suggested retail prices supplied to Consumers Distributing. Where manufacturers do not supply suggested retail prices, Consumers Distributing has applied to its cost mark-up percentages based on trade customs (which commonly vary with respect to various types of items) to arrive at a price which it considers to be in accordance with customary trade practices. In any event, these prices may vary in different trading areas depending on shipping and other costs and circumstances which might affect such a price.

No user of this catalog should assume that a savings will be effected or realized in an amount equal to the difference between the figure in the right-hand column and the Consumers Distributing price. In some cases, other retailers may be selling goods at prices equal to or less than Consumers Distributing price for the purpose of clearing goods which are end-of-line or stale merchandise, or by reason of their ordinary business practices.

• All prices are subject to change without notice due to manufacturer's increases or decreases, changes in federal or state taxation or world fluctuations of currencies or the prices of gold, gems and precious metals.

• We're only human so the occasional error may slip through. We are not responsible for typographical and transpositional errors.

• If ever temporary shortages of our advertised items occur, you are assured the special price on a resupply, or comparable savings on a similar item with a similar dollar value.
